The Opportunity

The Environmental Health Officer is responsible for the delivery of effective Environmental Health and Local Laws services in compliance with Government Legislation, Council corporate plan goals and industry best practice.

This role encompasses a range of duties and responsibilities which may vary as directed by Council. The key ones include:

- Undertaking environmental health investigations, assessments, sampling and audits (e.g. pollution management; environmental value determination, food safety, vector management, disaster and pandemic management, local laws, waste management, etc.);
- Collecting evidence and preparing Briefs for Court hearings in relation to alleged offences;
- Preparing and issuing regulatory notices (e.g. Compliance, Stop Order, Improvement, etc.) and Infringement Notices;
- Urgently respond to high risk customer requests or incidents to protect the community and environment;

About Yourself

A person in this position will need to hold a relevant Bachelor Level Degree in Environmental Health accredited by Environmental Health Australia (EHA). A current Queensland "C" Class driver's licence is also necessary.

It is also highly desirable for the successful candidate to have obtained and maintained professional accreditations in Food Safety Auditing, Asbestos Regulations and Pest Management and be eligible for membership with Environmental Health Australia (EHA).
